Final Project Proposal – Raymond Liu

Topic:

Conformity Quiz – My website will be a place for you to pick answers to questions and compare your responses to those of the world and your friends.

Audience:

The intended audience for my website is anybody who wants to see how their opinions hold up within their friend group and the world. The targeted age range is 13+ since anybody can submit questions and the audience needs to be able to understand the questions and have their own opinions.

Design & Style:

Since this is a relatively simple game, I want the interface to be relatively minimalistic and pleasing to watching. The questions will only have two possible responses, so I want to pick two opposing colors (orange and azure) and try to design most of the website around those two colors with similar shades of color or gradients.

Inspiration

https://dribbble.com/shots/16850742-Sunrise - I love the way this mainly only uses two colors but is still able to create such a stunning image

https://dribbble.com/shots/16889936-Achievement-Icons/attachments/11954393?mode=media – Another example of clean simplistic two-color design

Scope:

Main Page/About Page ← Homepage with information about website + Login

Questions Page ← Where you answer all the questions and compare your results to everyone else

Submit New Questions Page ← For if you want to add your own questions
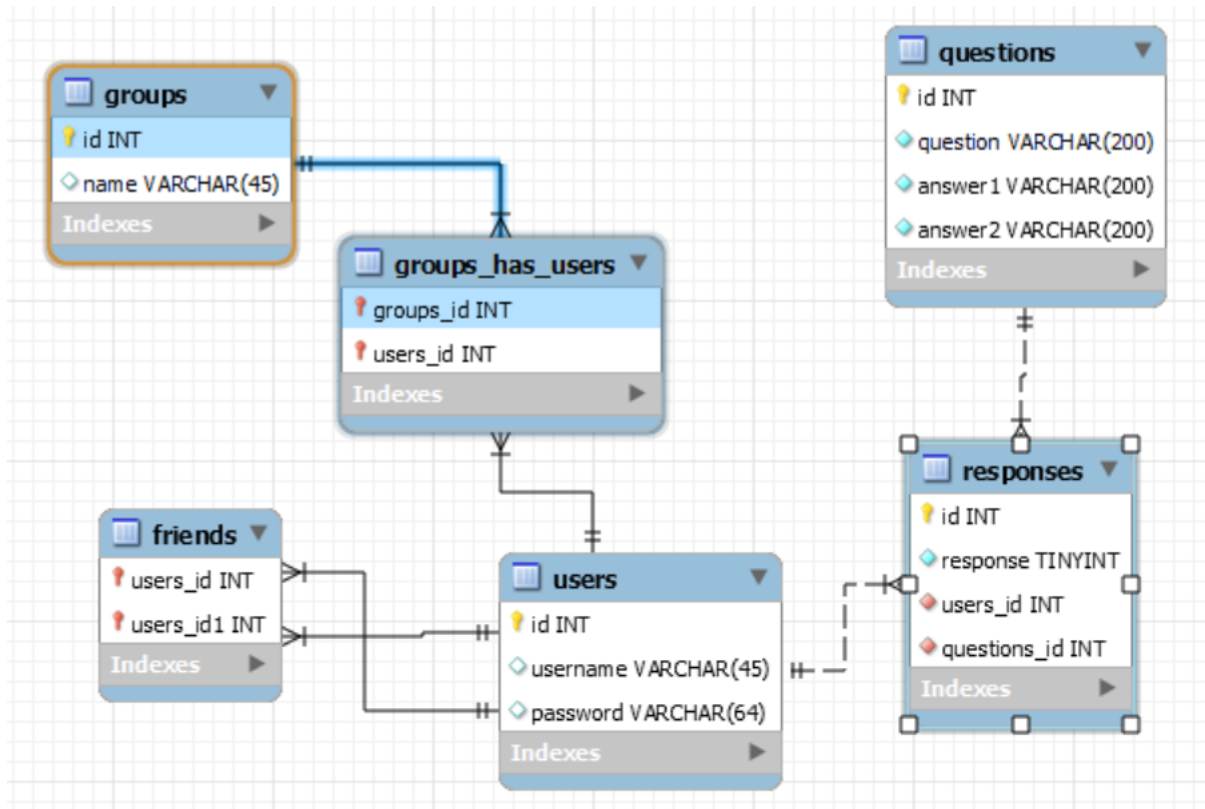

Group Page ← For finding groups

Friends Page ← For finding friends

Database:

Inside the database will be an users list, questions list, friends list, groups list, and everyone's answers to the questions.
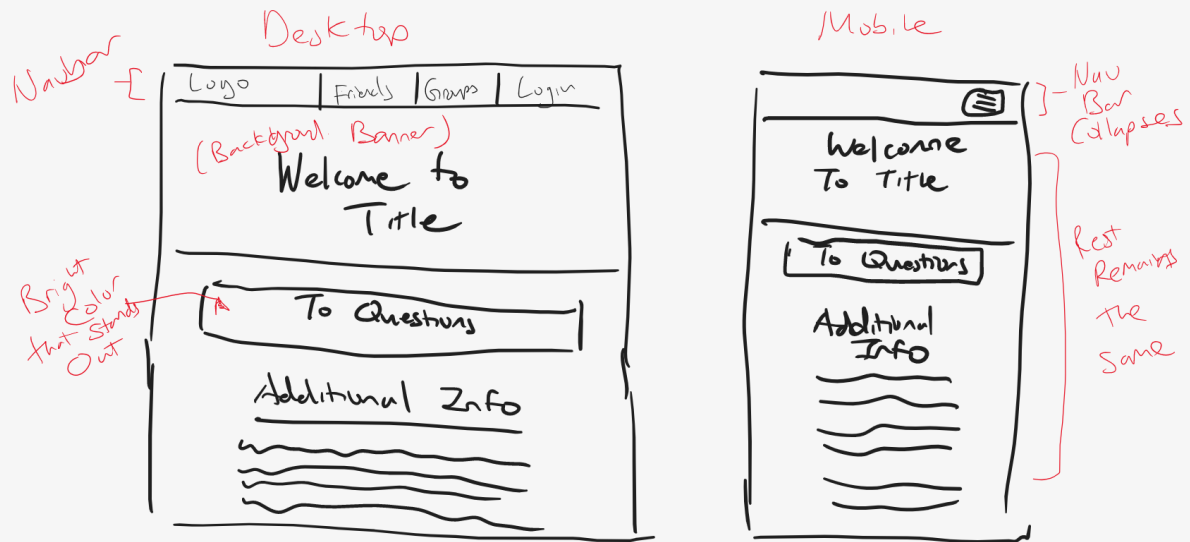

All data will be crowd sourced.
